An Opioid Epidemic: Right Here, Right Now

Speaker:

Stephen Strobbe, PhD, RN, PMHCNS-BC, CARN-AP

Across the nation, communities—including our own—are in the midst of an opioid epidemic. From a nursing perspective, we will explore factors that led to this dramatic increase in opioid overdoses and deaths, consider new CDC guidelines for the prescribing of opioid medications, and discuss elements of the Comprehensive Addiction and Recovery Act (CARA) of 2016

Professor Strobbe is a Clinical Associate Professor, University of Michigan School of Nursing, Department of Health Behavior and Biological Sciences & University of Michigan School of Medicine, Department of Psychiatry, Co-Chair Washtenaw Health Initiative Opioid Project.
